

SOLIDARITY FUND LEVERAGES PARTNERSHIPS, with SAA, BP and TOTAL TO BRING IN MUCH-NEEDED PPE.

The Solidarity Fund took delivery of a consignment of Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) in June 2020 as part of its health and humanitarian intervention to provide much-needed PPE for frontline health workers.

The delivery was made possible by a partnership between the Fund, South African Airways (SAA) through its Cargo division as well as fuel suppliers BP and Total who donated jet fuel. The collaboration helped to reduce overhead costs, thereby enabling the Fund to optimise resources and direct spend towards the critical equipment.

The Chairman of the Solidarity Fund, Gloria Serobe said: "We are grateful for this partnership as it embodies the Fund's principle of unity in action. It is further proof of what can be achieved when different stakeholders come together and contribute their expertise for the benefit of a shared objective."

This PPE is for health personnel at the frontlines of the fight against Covid-19, primarily in the public sector.
