

THANK YOU LETTER

To the Solidarity Fund

This letter serves as a formal thank you message for your recent donation of surgical masks to the Wits Faculty of Health Sciences.

The country is currently facing the COVID-19 pandemic, which resulted in the announcement of a national lockdown and halting some activities such as face-to-face learning at universities. However, some restrictions have been lifted recently allowing health science students to return to campus and resume their clinical training - this can be anxiety-provoking for some students considering the threat to their safety and wellbeing. While the Faculty aims to support students through a range of essential safety measures for them to continue learning efficiently and safely, your generous donation of 90 000 masks helps us to achieve this aim with greater consistency and fairness.

We are humbled by you extending a helping hand towards the Faculty of Health Sciences at a time when PPE is most needed; your contribution will not be in vain as the team will work tirelessly in ensuring that students are supported with all the protective measures possible. Your donation is also in line with the #MakeADifference Campaign that the Office of Student Success has embarked on to ensure that the needs of health science students are taken care of, holistically. In the spirit of the Solidarity Fund there is indeed unity in action, and this gesture will go a long way in protecting the future of South Africa's health care, affirming that we are stronger as one.

On behalf of the Wits Faculty of Health Sciences, Thank you! Siyabonga!

From the #MakeADifference team.
